

ARKANSAS FFA

FOUNDATION ANNUAL REPORT
2024-2025

ABOUT Us

The Arkansas FFA Foundation builds partnerships with industry, education, government, other foundations, and individuals to secure financial resources to support FFA member achievements, develop student leaders, and foster the future of agricultural education. The Foundation exists to remove financial barriers and ease the financial burden of FFA participation. Funds raised through the Arkansas FFA Foundation directly benefit members and chapters at the local level. A few examples include:

- FFA Foundation scholarships for more than 60 students annually
- Awards for Career Development Events (CDE), Leadership Development Event Contests (LDE), and Star Proficiency Awards
- Travel expenses to National Convention for state CDE and LDE winners
- Leadership conferences for chapter and state officers
- Camp Couchdale funding
- State FFA Officers

MISSION

The FFA's mission is to make a positive difference in the lives of students by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth, and career success through agricultural education.

MOTTO

Learning to Do, Doing to Learn, Earning to Live, Living to Serve

DEAR SUPPORTERS,

Serving as a state officer is a privilege that only a few FFA members get to experience. While wearing our blue jackets, we proudly carried the Arkansas FFA Association's name, but more importantly, we were honored with the responsibility of making a meaningful impact. As state officers, we served as role models for members across Arkansas, encouraging them to lead boldly, chase opportunity, and believe in their own potential. Each year, a new team steps forward, and each year those officers leave with a deeper sense of gratitude for the organization that shaped their story.

The 2024–2025 Arkansas FFA State Officer Team reflects on this year with full hearts. We are grateful for every laugh, memory, meal, and connection made along the way. But none of these moments would be possible without the unwavering support of those who invest in this association. It's because of our supporters, donors, alumni, agricultural educators, and advocates that the FFA continues to change lives.

This year, we had the privilege of witnessing Arkansas FFA continue to grow and evolve in remarkable ways. Membership is reaching new heights, and with every new member comes a new story, a new passion, and a new leader in the making.

The Foundation itself has continued to strengthen its support and invest in opportunities that allow students to grow beyond what they imagined. Whether it was cheering on members at CDE and LDE events, celebrating student achievements on stage, or simply encouraging someone who doubted themselves, we saw firsthand how impactful this organization continues to be.

On behalf of the 2024–2025 Arkansas FFA State Officer Team, thank you. Your belief in this organization makes our work possible, and your support ensures that the future of Arkansas agriculture remains bright, resilient, and full of promise.

- Josie Wilkins
 - Arkansas State FFA President

The past year has been one of transformation and renewed momentum for the Arkansas FFA Foundation. Together, we have taken important steps to strengthen the organization and ensure its ability to support Arkansas FFA for many years to come.

Early in the year, the Board approved amendments to our bylaws—an important step in modernizing our governance and aligning our structure with best practices. We also revamped our budgeting process to bring greater transparency, accountability, and flexibility in how we plan and allocate resources. These changes will serve as the foundation for more strategic growth and impact.

I am especially pleased to welcome Anna Lester of Farm Credit as the newest member of our Board of Directors. Her knowledge of agriculture and commitment to youth development will add valuable perspective as we chart our future course.

Equally exciting, the Board completed a nationwide search for a new executive leader, and we were fortunate to hire Taylor Wiseman as Executive Director. Taylor brings fresh energy, organizational experience, and a passion for agriculture education that will help us build stronger partnerships, expand fundraising, and increase opportunities for FFA members across the state.

With these transitions complete, the Foundation is positioned to move from a period of reorganization to one of growth. Our mission remains clear: to provide the resources needed for students to develop leadership, personal growth, and career success through agricultural education. The steps we took this year were not just about change—they were about preparing for the future.

On behalf of the Board of Directors, I want to thank our donors, partners, and friends for your continued support. Because of you, Arkansas FFA students are building the skills and confidence that will make them the next generation of leaders in agriculture, business, and community life.

Eric Hughes,
Arkansas FFA Foundation Board Chair

ENDOWMENTS

The Arkansas FFA Foundation is proud to announce the State FFA Officer Leadership Endowment. Founded in 1966, the American Association for Vocational Instructional Materials (AAVIM) was dissolved after decades of service, with remaining funds distributed to founding partners. Thanks to longtime AAVIM president Mr. Marion Fletcher, Arkansas FFA received over $140,000 to establish this permanent endowment.

The endowment will provide critical support for Arkansas FFA State Officers, including leadership training, travel, and member engagement.

The Arkansas FFA Foundation is proud to announce the Maloch Family Leadership Endowment—a lasting legacy of service, leadership, and generosity.

This $100,000 gift ensures Arkansas FFA State Officers are supported for generations and provides each officer with their official State FFA Officer ring. Senator Bruce Maloch, Ms. Martha Maloch, and their family have a deep FFA history, with three generations serving as state FFA presidents and both Senator Maloch and his daughter Victoria serving as national FFA secretaries.

These newly established endowments ensure that the impact of FFA will continue forever.

BLUE JACKET SOCIETY

Do you credit the FFA for your success? Many Arkansas FFA alumni consider their time wearing the FFA jacket to be some of their most cherished memories. Here is your chance to give back to Arkansas FFA! Join the Blue Jacket Society and have your FFA jacket encased in a shadow box and displayed in the Alumni Room of the newly renovated Marion Fletcher Leadership Center at Camp Couchdale. Funds raised by the society will provide enriching FFA experiences for the next generation of leaders.

LEGENDARY OWL HALL OF FAME

The Legendary Owl Hall of Fame was developed to honor extraordinary careers of agricultural educators. Legendary Owls are recognized for a lifetime of dedication and the heart they have poured into agricultural education and their students.

If you have a special agriculture teacher who made a difference in your life, now is the time to give back in their honor! Legendary Owls receive recognition in the Marion D. Fletcher Leadership Center at Camp Couchdale. Legendary Owls will be recognized on stage at the Arkansas FFA State Convention & Expo and are invited to a ceremony and reception with their families and supporters.

AG TEACHER SPOTLIGHT

Chris Bacchus

- School: Lamar
- Years in Agricultural Education: 20
- 2025 NAAE Region II Outstanding Agriculture Teacher

"I often say that teaching agriculture is the greatest privilege because I get to spend every day with students who are curious about agriculture, competitive, and willing to work hard and try new things. My job allows me to find areas they are interested in and then push them to be the best they can be in that area. The support of the FFA Foundation makes programs and competitive events possible for my students and helps keep them engaged in the agriculture industry in high school and beyond."

DONOR SPOTLIGHT

Macy Braswell

- FFA Chapter: Mt. Holly FFA
- 1995-1996 State Officer

"Even after hanging up my blue jacket, the FFA continues to benefit me through the leadership, communication, and work ethic instilled in me. Those lessons still shape how I approach challenges and opportunities today. As Christians we are called to serve others, comparably, the FFA motto includes 'Living to Serve.' This statement is at the core of who I hope to be and allows me to positively impact the lives of those I encounter."

I remain engaged because the organization shaped my core values, leadership skills, and passion for agriculture education. I prioritize giving to the FFA because it gave me so much — years of memories, valuable experiences, lessons that shaped my character, and lifelong friendships."

2024 AMERICAN DEGREE RECIPIENTS

The American FFA Degree is the highest honor a member can earn in the National FFA Organization. It represents exceptional dedication to FFA, showcasing years of hard work and achievement. Recipients demonstrate excellence in their Supervised Agricultural Experience (SAE), strong leadership abilities, and a high level of community involvement. Achieving this degree signifies that a member has gone above and beyond in service to their chapter, state association, and community, leaving a legacy of leadership and commitment within FFA.

STAR IN AG BUSINESS

Will Wheat, Har-Ber

Will Wheat has an SAE in the area of agricultural services. He owns a business where he does freelance work creating promotional videos for various hunting and fishing outfitters and hunting and fishing equipment sales. Will says “It is an honor to be named a state star winner. I am using the money to invest back into my business.”

William has an Entrepreneurship project in Agribusiness Systems that centers around his freelance advertising and marketing business, Dubsoutdoors, LLC, where he creates photo and video content for major outdoor brands in the hunting and fishing industry. Starting with borrowed camera gear, he grew his business through mentorship, reinvestment, and a $1,000 SAE grant—eventually acquiring his own equipment and taking control over client contracts, creative direction, and production management. One of William’s greatest accomplishments is a recent project of creating a documentary about the bond between childhood friends created through hunting and fishing trips.

STAR IN AGRISCIENCE

Caleb Green, Lamar

Caleb has an Agriscience project where he, along with fellow Lamar FFA member Grant Miller, tested consumer preference among four types of eggs—farm fresh brown, farm fresh blue, commercial white, and organic—through a blind taste test with 20 participants. Each egg sample was prepared identically and served randomly with water and crackers to cleanse the palate between tastings. Results showed that farm fresh brown eggs were the clear favorite, while organic eggs were the least preferred, with commercial white and farm fresh blue eggs falling in between. This project was made possible through the support of Dr. Hanning and the University of Arkansas Poultry Science Department, their teacher, and school administration, who provided resources, guidance, and time to conduct the experiment.

Caleb says “competing in the AgScience competition opened up my mind to new ideas by designing research projects, and challenged me to learn new things that I didn’t know existed. One of my favorite parts was conducting a research experiment at the University of Arkansas in the Poultry Science department, working alongside professors that do research as a career.”

STAR IN AG PLACEMENT

Adalyn Hanning, Har-Ber

Adalyn Hanning has an SAE in the area of agricultural processing. She works as an unpaid employee at the University of Arkansas poultry pilot processing plant. She has created fresh, whole products as well as further processed products. Adalyn says "I am excited to be called a state star. I felt so accomplished to stand on stage and receive my award."

Adalyn has a Placement project in Food Products and Processing Systems in which she worked as an unpaid assistant in the University of Arkansas poultry processing pilot plant. She supports meat science research projects by helping process and evaluate poultry products. Adalyn's greatest accomplishments include gaining hands-on expertise in grading broiler breast myopathies, expanding her knowledge of poultry processing operations through research and industry tours, and contributing to meat quality research focused on key industry challenges like woody breast and white striping.

STAR FARMER

Emilio Smith-Gomez, Decatur

Emilio says, "My SAE project goes beyond my livestock shows as I have bred our own show lambs for years. This has taught me herd management and encouraged me to take care of my lambs as best as possible. Healthy lambs are happy lambs."

Emilio has an Entrepreneurship project in Animal Systems in which he began in his childhood but grew significantly through FFA, expanding from market lambs to breeding Purebred Cotswolds, and later managing a full flock independently. His responsibilities increased over time, especially after his sister left for college, requiring him to take over all aspects of care, showing, and fitting for multiple breeds. His greatest challenge came when he added Southdowns and Lincolns to his flock, but through persistence and learning from mistakes, he mastered new skills and earned top honors at NAILE, proving the value of hard work and determination.

GREATEST NEEDS

Leadership Development

Leadership development is a pillar of the FFA experience. Arkansas FFA members attend leadership camps and conferences year-round, including Arkansas Leadership Conference, IMPACT Conference, Greenhand Conference, and Chapter President's Conference. Funding ensures costs stay low for members, supports relevant and quality curriculum for leadership and personal development, and provides training of facilitators.

Camp Couchdale

Camp Couchdale is located along the banks of Lake Catherine and has been home to Arkansas FFA since 1929. More than one million youth have spent time at Camp Couchdale enjoying activities and leadership conferences and camps. Camp also serves as the home base and training center for the State FFA Officers.

To meet the growing Arkansas FFA membership, immediate funding needs include ensuring safety and accessibility around Camp, repairing lodging facilities to house more FFA members, and revitalizing the eroded lakeshore infrastructure.

Local Chapter Support

The heart of FFA is at the local level through an agricultural education program and FFA chapter. Funding for local chapters is vital to ensure FFA continues into the future. Funding will help support grants for members to receive their first FFA jacket and join FFA, training for new and beginning agriculture teachers, and provide member grants for Supervised Agricultural Experience (SAE) Projects.

The Arkansas FFA Foundation empowers members across the state—but we can't do it without you. Every program, conference, and opportunity is made possible by generous supporters like you!

Make your donation today and invest in the future of Arkansas agriculture.
